It's been a good day! Filling continental breakfast of interesting breads and sour-cherry jam, then cycling to Stein am Rhein. Here's some pix, and here's the cyclemeter map: <https://maps.google.com/?q=http://share.abvio.com/c6c5/a8e0/4fa7/2bae/Cyclemeter-Cycle-20140902-0956.kml>.

Then lots of border-crossings as German and Switzerland oscillate along the north bank of the Rhine. There's a bit of Germany called Büsingen which can't be entered or left except via Switzerland (http://en.m.wikipedia.org/wiki/Büsingen_am_Hochrhein).

So here's photographic proof that we were there:

And so on to Schaffhausen. A pretty market town but with lots of industry. Some of it is centred on aluminium extraction - a hydro-electric plant provides the phenomenal amount of electricity needed. In fact, from a plaque we saw, this was the start of the european aluminium industry.

A quick lunch and then on to the falls: These were spectacular. I took a boat-trip to an island in the middle of the falls. The noise of the water was intense! Here's a video: <https://maps.google.com/?q=http://share.abvio.com/c6c5/a8e0/4fa7/2bae/Cyclemeter-Cycle-20140902-1525.kml>

And then back to Schaffhausen for the curry and beer of the trip so far. Potato and red kidney beans in a peppery gravy, preceded by fab samosas and accompanied with Falken Schwartzler bier. Dark, nutty and delicious, giving Koziel a run for its money.
